

Abstract

The invention relates to a method for producing paper imprinted with a pattern, especially cigarette paper that is impregnated stripwise with fire-retardant materials. According to said
5 method, a self-supporting web of paper is imprinted with an aqueous printing solution. Said printing solution contains water-soluble polymers and the paper is heated to above 50 °C before or during printing.

#1286135 v11 - saundetm - rkdz011.doc - 24371/3

10